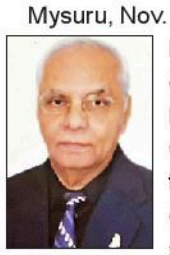
Retired IB Officer R.N. Kulkarni's murder case

Demolition deadline ends; MCC to issue ultimatum

Government holiday, Sunday stop MCC from razing illegal structure

Mysuru, Nov. 13 (MTY & DM)- Nov. 12 was the deadline issued by the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to clear illegal construction by the neighbour of retired Intelligence Bureau (IB) Officer late R.N. Kulkarni who paid with his life fighting against the illegality. The illegal structure was the motive behind the illustrious officer's murder. Today is Nov. 13 and tomorrow, the MCC will issue an ultimatum to Madappa, the owner of the illegal structure to vacate and pull down the part of the unauthorised structure.



Kulkarni

What prompted the MCC to delay the demolition even after the expiry of the deadline is Government holidays.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy said that though the deadline ended yesterday (Nov. 12), the MCC could not take any action due to Government holiday on Nov. 12 due to Saint Kanakadasa Jayanti and Nov. 13 being a Sunday.

"Tomorrow (Nov. 14), the jurisdictional Revenue Officer of the MCC will personally visit the spot at Sharadadevinagar and issue an ultimatum to Madappa and his family members to remove the doors of the unauthorised portion of the building and demolish it by Tuesday. If Madappa fails to pay heed even to the ultimatum, then the MCC will waste no time and spring into action on Wednesday and demolish the full portion of the unauthorised structure which is in violation of the MCC's building bylaws", he said.

MCC Commissioner Lakshmikantha Reddy added that the MCC will demolish the illegal part of the structure as per the Court order and will recover the demolition cost from Madappa's family members. He further said that the MCC is making use of the holidays to prepare for demolition, while also following procedures.

Kulkarni was fatally knocked down intentionally by a car while he was on his usual evening stroll in Manasagangothri campus on Nov. 4. The Police, who began their investigation, thoroughly scrutinised the CCTV images when it was found that it was a planned murder.

Later, City Police Commissioner Dr. Chandragupta formed four teams to crack the case. Based on a complaint by Kukarni's son-in law Sanjay Angadi which accused Madappa's family members of plotting to kill his father-in law over the issue of illegal construction, the Police picked up Madappa's younger son Manu for questioning, when he spilled the beans on his involvement in the planned murder.

Later, based on Manu's confession, the Police took Manu's friend Varun Gowda into custody, when the whole plot of the planned murder of the former IB officer was unearthed. Kulkarni had strongly objected to his neighbour Madappa constructing walls adjacent to his (Kulkarni) house without leaving set-back which was in violation of building bylaws.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The recent death of a 35-year-old destitute woman while giving birth to twins at her 'home' in front of her six-year-old daughter at Tumakuru in Karnataka, is heart-wrenching, to say the least. She was refused care and admission in the district hospital because of her inability to produce an Aadhaar or 'Thayi' card. In this tragedy, what is most important now is that it is not set aside as an isolated incident by either the State or us, the citizens. The State here is not referring to Karnataka, as the incident is neither unique nor specific only to Karnataka. Several such deaths occur in various parts of our country, and the vast majority do not even make it into a newspaper. It is also not about the doctor and other staff who have been suspended for their negligence; this is hardly a case of negligence. Denial of basic care in a public hospital leading to death is a case of homicide, but not necessarily against the specific individuals involved.

There are conversations going around about making the laws more stringent for public hospitals. However, what becomes critical to point out is that it is not only about the law and rules alone; it is also about the messages that those at the helm of affairs receive from everyone who matters: the higher bureaucracy, the ruling political class, and society as a whole. 'What is valued' is what matters, and if authentication is more valued than life, then that is what takes precedence. Those who denied hospital admission to Kasthuri, the woman who lost her life in Tumakuru, viewed the need for identity and entitlement proof as more important than saving her life, perhaps because they believed that if they admitted the woman without authentication, they would have faced an inquiry by senior authorities! There is a need to understand why they acted in the manner they did, rather than just making them the scapegoat. Is there a clear guideline for immediate medical attention without any paperwork in the case of serious patients or not?

Unless the entire system develops an ethos where protecting the rights of the most vulnerable is at the core of the welfare State, no amount of suspensions and dismissals will change anything on the ground; many more Kasthuris will die in obscurity. —Jyotsna Jha in Deccan Herald

'Superhero' Police bust criminal gang

Lima: Peruvian police in Lima recently received international attention for an offbeat operation in which officers disguised as Marvel and DC superheroes dismantled a crime family.

In a video that has been doing the rounds online for about two weeks now, Police officers disguised as Captain America, Thor, Spiderman and Cat Woman can be seen listening to the briefing for 'Operation Marvel'. After listening to a superior explain the details to them, they walk out to a car and drive to the location of their objective, a criminal operation run by the Mariátegui family, who specialised in drug trafficking.

The superheroes casually stroll through the streets all the way to their objective and then smash through the door of a house, catching their targets by surprise.

Woman wires her mouth to lose weight

Cape Town: A South African woman allegedly wired her mouth shut with "slimming wires" in a desperate attempt to lose weight for a breast reduction surgery.

Aviwe Mazosiwe has been trying to lose weight and reach a certain BMI to qualify for breast reduction surgery that she hopes will improve her quality of life. She had managed to lose 12 kilograms with intermittent fasting, but after reaching a plateau on her weight-loss journey, the South African woman decided to take more drastic measures. In June of this year, she had slimming wires fitted on her teeth.

These are orthodontic brackets with wires wrapped through them that are attached to the wearer's teeth to keep the jaw shut. It's a controversial weight loss device that has attracted a lot of criticism online after Aviwe started sharing her experience online.

Mother and Motherhood
conjures up something divine

Sir,

Dr. Javeed Nayeem, in his article titled 'A mother first and everything else, only later!' under his weekly column 'Over a Cup of Evening Tea' (Star of Mysore dated Nov. 6) says he was delighted and distressed referring to an incident when a mother, an IAS Officer of Kerala cadre cuddling her toddler son in a private film function came under sharp criticism from some quarters.

For the mother regardless of any status or situation bestowing love on the child is first priority and most natural one for motherhood. It is something divine and most adorable. It is extremely doubtful whether any man as brother, son, or husband however sensitive or intelligent despite long association and deep attachment can ever hope to divine what goes on in the mind of a woman. And when she becomes a mother it takes altogether a different dimension. Nature has blessed the woman and no man can ever experience the birth pangs when she brings out the child that was the part of her life and she smiles with supreme joy when it cries. It is perhaps the finest moment of her life and motherhood takes over then on.

There are several description of Mother and Motherhood. Probably what Khalil Gibran says may convey some measure of Mother:

'The mother is everything — she is our consolation in sorrow, our hope in misery, and strength in weakness. She is the source of love, mercy, sympathy and forgiveness. He who loves his mother loves a pure soul who blesses and guards him constantly. Mother, the most beautiful word on the lips of mankind.'

Commercial run begins
Passengers hail speed, comfort and exhaustion-free journey

Mysuru, Nov. 13 (RK&BCT)- The regular service of Vande Bharat train between Chennai and Mysuru via Bengaluru began yesterday. Prime minister Narendra Modi flagged off the train from Bengaluru on Friday and the inaugural service ran from Bengaluru to Chennai, without touching Mysuru.

This train is India's first semi high speed train equipped with world-class passenger amenities. Speed, safety and service are the hallmarks of this train manufactured at the Integral Coach Factory (ICF), Chennai.

The train entered the Mysuru City Railway Station at 12.20 pm with over 350 passengers. It left the Mysuru Station at 1.05 pm with over 250 passengers. All coaches are equipped with automatic doors, GPS-based audio-visual passenger information system and on-board WiFi hotspot.

S.J. Diwakar, a resident of Vijayanagar Second Stage, who travelled all the way from Chennai to Mysuru just for the experience of it, told Star of Mysore that the train left Chennai at 5.35 am and reached Bengaluru at 10.35 am. It reached Mysuru at 12.20 pm and the journey was pleasant. The seats are comfortable and the train signifies ease of travel, he said.

"As the train is fully air-conditioned and has large windows, the views from inside are good and we have not felt exhaustion even for a bit. I have travelled in many helicopters and aircraft and the Vande Bharat journey is among the best. It has to be experienced," he added.

Shivashankar of Vidyaranyapuram, who travelled from Bengaluru to Mysuru, said that though the fares are on the higher side, it is justified as the facilities inside the train are world-class. The doors between bogies are automated and based on a sensor system. Even the food supplied inside the coaches were good and the quality was maintained, passengers said.

The train has 14 AC Chair Car coaches each with a capacity to carry 78 passengers while there are 2 Executive Class coaches each with a capacity of carrying 52 passengers. The train will not have a dynamic fare system and will be operated on all days except Wednesdays.

The train will run at average speed of 72-75 kilometres per hour due to speed restrictions and other limitations including curves.

Beware! Danger lurks near M.G. Road underbridge

Mysuru, Nov. 13 (SBD&TRR)- Commuting near the underbridge on the Mahatma Gandhi (MG) Road has a become a nightmare for the public especially motorists.

The negligence of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) officials have put the lives of vehicle riders in danger. Though the Underground Drainage (UGD) pipes were laid months ago, the road has not been repaired yet. The trench, which was dug up was filled with excavated mud and continuous movement of vehicles coupled with heavy rains have resulted in the mud being washed away leaving the trench open.

Vehicular traffic on this narrow road is always heavy. Though vehicle owners can somehow manage during day time, it is extremely difficult to negotiate the trench during nights which may result in accidents. Even now, it is common to witness minor road mishaps in this road. Ambulances carrying patients to the nearby JSS Hospital are also finding it difficult to commute on this road. Despite all this hardships, MCC officials have not bothered to solve the problem.

Officials don't care for people representatives

Speaking about the problem, Corporator B.V. Manjunath said that after laying the UGD pipes, the contractor should fill the dug up portion with a mixture of concrete. It was decided at the Council meeting that the UGD Section should do this job.

"But this was changed by the MCC Commissioner, who directed that the job of filling potholes should be taken up by the Civil Engineering section. Following this, the Contractor filled the trench with mud. Now, that the mud has been washed away exposing the tench, it is causing hardships to the public.

We have appealed many times to MCC Zonal Office-1 Development Officer to fill the dug up portion with concrete, which was ignored. We have brought this to the notice of the MCC Commissioner about 15 days ago, but still no action has been taken," added Corporator Manjunath.

"The MCC officials are not bothered about the hardships faced by the citizens, but are also not heeding to the advice of the people's representatives. There are similar bad roads in Agrahara ward, causing hardships to the citizens. The negligence of the Development Officer is the reason for all these inconveniences," Manjunath added.

Mysuru, Nov. 13- Miscreants have stolen a computer and other equipment from the premises of a Trust at Kalyangiri in city.

One 58-year-old Afsar, to help poor people, had opened a Trust and was running it. On Nov. 7, Afsar locked the Trust and went home. When he returned the next day, he found the rear door of the Trust building open and on inspecting the premises he found the computer and other equipment worth Rs. 1.03 lakh stolen.

A case has been registered at Udayagiri Police Station.

Mentally challenged woman killed by sister, brother-in-law

Incident comes to light after two years; Varuna Police register case

Mysuru, Nov. 13- An incident of a mentally challenged woman being murdered by her own sister and brother-in-law has come to light after two years.

The deceased has been identified as Lakshmi of Chamarajanagar town and the accused have been identified as the victim's sister Roopa and her (Roopa) husband Siddaraju. The duo had allegedly killed Lakshmi at Rayanahundi in Mysuru taluk and they have been accused of burying the body in the toilet pit.

Details: 47-year-old Hema, a resident of Chamarajanagar, had given her daughter Lakshmi in marriage to one Rajesh of Tiruvannamalai at Tamil Nadu in 2012. Lakshmi has a seven-year-old son. As Lakshmi became mentally unstable about five years ago, her husband Rajesh, left her in her parents' house and did not come back since then.

Hema's second daughter Roopa, fell in love with Siddaraju and married him. They were staying in a rented house at Rayanahundi. Hema, who kept Lakshmi's son with her, sent Lakshmi to Roopa's house. In 2020, Roopa informed her mother that Lakshmi had gone missing and after a few days Siddaraju who left for Mangaluru for work had gone missing. A missing complaint was lodged at Chamarajanagar Police Station.

Meanwhile, Hema, who came to know that Chamarajanagar Police had traced Siddaraju, contacted Roopa and told her that her husband Siddaraju has been traced by the Police. When Hema expressed that Lakshmi was still missing, Roopa is said to have told Hema that it has been two years since Lakshmi had gone missing and it was a closed chapter now. Roopa is said to have told Hema that two years ago during Dasara, Lakshmi had removed her clothes and was screaming. Fearing that their respect would come to the street, Siddaraju had tied her hands and legs, gagged her and had locked her inside the house. But when they returned back, they found Lakshmi was dead and they buried her body in the toilet pit behind their house at Rayanahundi. Roopa also told her mother Hema not to reveal it to anyone.

Hema, after coming to know about her daughter being murdered, lodged a complaint with Varuna Police, who have registered a case and investigating.

Youth allegedly murdered by friends

Mysuru, Nov. 13 (RK&KS)- A 24-year-old youth was allegedly murdered by his friends over a petty issue at Mellahalli village in the taluk on Nov. 9 night.

The deceased youth is Manoj Kumar of Mellahalli village.

It is learnt that a few days ago, a fight had taken place over a birthday issue with his friends Raghu, Kiran, Shankar and Sachin. On Nov. 9 night, when Manoj was on his way home, the four friends, who came on bikes allegedly stabbed Manoj and fled from the spot.

Villagers, who saw Manoj, lying in a pool of blood rushed him to the nearby private hospital, but Manoj had breathed his last by then.

Varuna Police, conducted mahazar, registered a case, shifted the body to MMC&RI mortuary besides launching a hunt to nab the four accused.

Post-mortem was conducted and the body was handed over to Manoj's family members.

Seed savers display India's rich agricultural diversity

Today's scene from the Kisan Swaraj Sammelan venue — KSOU premises.

Mysuru, Nov. 13 (Akshay& BCT)- Over 150 seed conservationists from across the country are showcasing India's rich agricultural diversity at the Fifth All-India Kisan Swaraj Sammelan of the Alliance for Sustainable and Holistic Agriculture (ASHA) at the Convocation Hall of Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) in Muktagangothri campus along Hunsur Road here. The three-day Mela concludes today.

It is for the first time such a meet is being held in Mysuru and the earlier Sammelans were held at Bhopal, Chandigarh, Hyderabad and Ahmedabad. Over 300 to 400 varieties of paddy including the famed "Mysuru Mallige" paddy variety are on display. The lion's share of paddy collection is from Tamil Nadu where conservationists are showcasing over 30 rare varieties.

These are organically grown paddy and are less-prone to diseases. Farmers and seed savers from 17 States are participating in the Sammelan and the event is a platform for sharing ideas and also a place to exchange rare varieties of seeds so that their varieties can be multiplied and preserved.

Sahaja Samrudha, Janapada Seva Trust, ICAR-JSS KVK (Suttur), SOIL, Allama Research and Cultural Foundation, Desi Seed Producer Company Ltd. and Belavala Foundation are among the Sammelan organisers.

Conservationists told Star of Mysore that they usually buy one or two kg seeds at such exhibitions and cultivate them in their land for the seeds to multiply. Later, they are stored and disbursed among fellow seed savers. Apart from paddy, huge varieties of pulses, millets, fruits like banana, custard apple and soursop are on display.

'Vazha Chettan' from Kerala

Vinod Sahadevan Nair, a banana-grower from Parassala in Thiruvananthapuram in Kerala, has brought over 60 varieties of banana and most of the fruits have big seeds. "These are the original varieties and over the years, the banana seeds became minute," he said.

Vinod sells all his harvest from the farm in wholesale market and earns up to Rs. 1 lakh a month. Popular as Vazha Chettan (Banana brother), Vinod has over 500 varieties of banana in his collection and the names of bananas he cultivates roll off his tongue — Matti, Pisang Muttapoovan, Karinkadali, Ottamungali, Jaribuyam, Ayiramka Poovan, Pidimonthan, Jahanji, Ney vazha, Lambi, Beeji kela, Gothya, ladies finger, Zanzibar, Pagher, Icecream Banana, etc.

The main attraction at his stall in the exhibition is the 1,000 fingers — one bunch containing a thousand bananas.

'Beeja Maate' Papamma from Kolar

Beeja Maate' Papamma, from Kolar is reckoned to be a star among Karnataka farmers as she cultivates a variety of seeds ranging from millets to paddy on her 3-acre plot of land. She has brought over 300 varieties of paddy, cereals and millets. A State Award winner, Papamma is an example of how tapping indigenous varieties of seeds could help bail out farmers from agricultural distress.

According to the organisers, the focus of the Sammelan is to promote traditional varieties of millets, fruits and paddy and also bring the limelight on crops that are not water intensive.

"All traditional varieties including millet and paddy do not require heavy doses of pesticides and insecticides or fertilisers. Their cost of cultivation is low and there is growing acceptance of millet, which is making a comeback among consumers. These crops are economically viable, environmentally sustainable and have given hopes for farmers in times of drought," they said. The Sammelan has over 85 stalls dedicated for seeds and there are over 30 exhibition and sale stalls.

Tiyanna, a research scholar from Australia, told SOM that she came here to meet women seed conservationists. "Women play an important role in agriculture and I have met many women who are seed savers. I am going back with rich memories and the experience here will help my research in human welfare," she said.

Apart from brainstorming sessions and lectures by subject experts on various issues related to agriculture, the Sammelan had a good spread of organic cooked food.

Nandi Mahabhisheka held

Suttur and Hosmutt Seers performing abhisheka to Nandi statue atop Chamundi Hill this morning.

Mysuru, Nov. 13 (MTY&DM)- The Mahabhisheka to the statue of Nandi atop Chamundi Hill was conducted this morning in the presence of Seers and devotees. The city's Bettada Balaga Charitable Trust has been conducting the Nandi Mahabhisheka annually during Karthika Masa for the past several years and today's was the 17th one.

The Mahabhisheka began with the performance of pujas and rituals amid chanting of hymns, with the use of 32 puja articles including a variety of colours, fruits and flowers, milk, chandana, srigandha, bilvapatre, kharjura, tender coconut, turmeric, vermilion etc.

After the conclusion of Mahabhisheka, during which the Nandi Statue mired in hues of colours, Jalabhisheka (Washing with Water) was performed, following which the statue was decorated with a variety of flowers.

Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji, Hosmutt Seer Sri Chidananda Swamiji and other Seers graced the occasion.

Bettada Balaga Charitable Trust office-bearers N. Govinda, S. Prakashan, V.N. Sundar, Shivakumar and others were present.

This year, the number of devotees was less as compared to the pre-COVID years as the road leading to the statue atop the Hill is under repair, it is learnt.

The Balaga had asked the devotees to take the road leading from Tavarekatte or Uttanahalli sides to be part of the grand annual event.

Over a cup of evening Tea

By Dr. K. Javeed Nayeem, MD

Wrong delivery... to the Right address!

There can be no denying that it is very good for all of us when the things we do, go right and it can naturally be very frustrating when they don't. But sometimes, things can go wrong, in a right kind of way too, as it happened to me in the week that has just gone by. A few days ago, I considered myself very lucky when I was able to locate a rare and difficult to find book, on an online, used-book selling site. Elated at being able to procure what I was looking for over a very long time, I immediately ordered that book, which was advertised at what seemed like a surprisingly low price, considering its rarity.

Yes, it happens sometimes, and, on many occasions, I have been able to pick up some fantastic literary gems, at almost throw away prices. But let me warn you, that it happens only with books and not with other so-called valuable things, because most people know the value of most things except rare books, which is a blessing in disguise for book-lovers like me!

On many occasions, when I find that a book I am looking for, is available only on some site abroad, that does not cart its wares to India, I ask my daughter Sarah, who is particularly good at such jobs, to step in and see that it is bought and delivered to any of our relatives or friends, either in the UK or the USA, whichever is more convenient. And after I'm very pleased that my purchases are safe with them, it becomes their responsibility to lug my often-heavy shopping bags for me, all the way to India.

But last month, for the first time, the responsibility of hefting my shopping bags home myself, fell on me, when my wife and I visited my nephew, Dr. Ashfaq and his wife Dr. Shugufta, and spent a few days with their family in Reading, in the UK, where they are settled. But please do not think that this will spare them the burden of bringing my purchases with them in the coming future, because by the time they come to India, sometime soon, I'm sure their bags will once again be full of my books, purchased online in the intervening period!

The 'Wrong' book

Coming back to the purchase of the rare book I was talking about, I was very pleased with my find and I was waiting very expectantly for it to arrive. So much so, that I just could not resist the temptation of calling up my wife from my workplace, within less than an hour of leaving the house, each passing day, to enquire if she had received the parcel.

But to disguise my impatience I would always make it a point to ask her how she was feeling and also talk of a few other unrelated things, before broaching the subject of the expected book. She most certainly would have wondered why I was suddenly showing so much affection for her and concern for how things were at her end, especially when I would be away from the house for hardly four hours every day!

Much to my sense of slight irritation, my much-awaited book took its own sweet time in traversing the short distance between Ernakulam, where the dealer was located and Mysuru where I was waiting for it.

But four days ago, my wife, now well aware of my anxiety about my book, herself called me up, to say that my much-awaited parcel had finally arrived. Hurrying back, with a spring in my step, when I reached home and tore open the package, I was utterly dismayed to find that I had received the wrong book!

Aghast, and with an irritated countenance, I turned the book around and looked at its rear, when I found that it was a biography of the world renowned British-Indian geneticist, J.B.S. Haldane, written by Samanth Subramanian, a London-based writer, who was very familiar to me. I had read two of his other books, and I had grown to like his lively style of writing very much, although this was one of his books I had not seen or even known of. And, Haldane too was not a complete stranger to me, although genetics, his passion, was not really my cup of tea. In fact, it was one of the subjects which I found much tougher to grasp, let alone master, than the others, not only during my BSc., course but in medical college too.

To avoid the disappointment of missing my first sought book, I quickly telephoned the bookseller to tell him about his stupid mistake and ask him to reserve it for me. That is when he almost enraged me by very apologetically telling me that it was sold out! Feeling more than a little sad, as I leafed through the pages of the book I was holding, my disappointment slowly came around a full circle and surprisingly, turned to elation once again, and I began to wonder whether this disaster of receiving the wrong book was perhaps not a piece of good luck after all.

My doubts were completely dispelled, when I could find a chapter in the book entitled 'India', which dealt with Haldane's life and last days in our country, after he relinquished his citizenship and left the land of his birth in utter disillusionment and disappointment over Britain's post-war political ideology, which did not appeal to him in the least. Although I quickly realised that this wrongly sent book too would be a very good read worth keeping, why I turned to this chapter in particular was because I was very eager to find out if it mentioned something very interesting about J.B.S. Haldane, that I have known over nearly fifty years, from the time when I was a fledgling, first-year medical student.

It is something that has to do with another great man, who was associated with Haldane, through his death, in a very strange sort of way, without meeting him at all, during his lifetime and who a full decade later, came into my life and played an unforgettable role in shaping my life into what it is now! Sounds strange, right? But you'll read all about it next week. So please stay tuned!

Rainbow of umbrellas under raining clouds

The Heritage City drenched in incessant rains on Friday and Saturday and was covered in a thick blanket of fog. From school-going children to office-going men and women, all managed to reach their destinations, dripping wet. Amidst unhindered, heavy and light showers, Star of Mysore photographer M.N. Lakshminarayana Yadav got a glimpse of the Dufferin Clock Tower area on the busy Sayyaji Rao Road where street vendors opened huge umbrellas against the downpour, protecting their commodities and themselves from the chilling raindrops. They were attending to only a couple of customers who shopped while most of the people remained indoors. The colourful umbrellas all over made one feel as though a 'Rainbow' had descended onto the ground.

Siddharamaiah gets swanky caravan for election travel

The bus yatra by the two leaders will be similar to the 1999 'Panchajanya Yatra' where the then KPCC President S.M. Krishna travelled in buses and the yatra had led to the party to be in power with the majority vote.

Meanwhile, Siddharamaiah is yet to finalise his constituency to contest the 2023 elections. He had sacrificed the Varuna seat for his son during the 2018 polls and contested from Chamundeshwari. However, the veteran politician lost the election. The saving grace was, however, his victory in Badami where he won with a close margin.

Several Congress leaders in Kolar are of the opinion that Kolar is the best suited place for the former CM to contest and have extended support. Siddharamaiah's loyalist and former Speaker K.R. Ramesh Kumar, MLA K. Srinivasa Gowda, Nanje Gowda, S.N. Narayanaswamy and former MLA Sudhakar have extended their support for Siddharamaiah, sources said.

Even Siddharamaiah had hired two private agencies to conduct the survey in Kolar and both of them said that Siddharamaiah's chances of winning from Kolar seat are 56 percent and 60 percent.

Today, before boarding the bus, Siddharamaiah told media persons "The party workers from Badami, Varuna and Kolar are exerting pressure for me to contest from those segments. I have not taken a decision in this regard and the final decision will be taken in consultation with the High Command."

Tigress snare death: Two cubs spotted; search on for one more

Mysuru, Nov. 13 (MTY&BCT)- The Forest Department staff have spotted the two cubs of the tigress that was found snared to death close to the Taraka Dam near the Antharasanthe Range of Nagarahole in H.D. Kote yesterday. The tigress, famous as 'Nayanji Katte female' fell prey to the snare laid by hunters to hunt wild boars.

The Department personnel are searching for one more cub and said that the three cubs are 10-month old and need the care and nursing of their mother. "We are trying our best to find the cubs and over 30 CCTV cameras have been placed in the vicinity where the carcass of the tigress has been found," Forest officers told Star of Mysore.

If the cubs are not rescued, there is a danger of them starving to death. "We do not want this to happen and teams have been patrolling the core area of the forests since last night to locate the cubs," officers said. The tigress death incident came to light when the locals sighted the carcass and informed the Forest Department who identified it as the same tigress which used to be sighted near Taraka.

Laying of snares is a practice to protect one's crops as any other method like fencing. Snares have been put around farms, coffee estates and wildlife corridors for defending produce or for other ulterior motives for ages.

With many owners of farms on the periphery of the woods making snares from green-coated wires to camouflage to escape detection by Forest Department officials, the task to remove the snares is difficult, said officers.

Rs. 5.55 lakh deposit amount misappropriated at Post Office

Case registered against Postmaster

Talakad, Nov. 13- An amount of Rs. 5.55 lakh deposited by the public has been misused by the staff of T. Bettahalli Post Office branch coming under Talakad Sub-Post Office limits and a case has been registered at Talakad Police Station.

The accused is 33-year-old S.S. Vasuki, who was working as a Postmaster at T. Bettahalli Post Office branch between Feb. 10, 2012 and July 1, 2022.

The incident of Vasuki misusing public money came to light when B.N. Shanthamallappa, a resident of Mudukuthore, who holds a Senior Citizen Savings Account, went to the Post Office on Aug. 4 to withdraw his money.

Details: One Chikkamadamma, a resident of T. Bettahalli village had given Rs. 25,000 to Vasuki to open a Term Deposit (TD) account on Dec. 9, 2020. But instead of opening the account in Chikkamadamma's name, Vasuki had given the Recurring Deposit pass book thus misusing the money.

Also, Shanthamallappa, on July 1, 2021 had given Rs. 3 lakh and again on May 11, 2022 had given Rs. 1 lakh to Vasuki to open a Senior Citizen Savings Account. But Vasuki, who did not open the account in Shanthamallappa's name, had reportedly given him a fake pass book.

This apart, one Komala of T. Bettahalli village, had given Rs. 50,000 to Vasuki on Apr. 30, 2021 to open a Savings Account. But Vasuki had allegedly shown only Rs. 500 in the account and had misused the remaining Rs. 49,500. Also, Rs. 30,000 deposited on Nov. 21, 2021 and Rs. 10,000 deposited on Apr. 9, 2022 by Komala has been misused. Overall, a total amount of Rs. 89,500 of Komala has been misused.

Vasuki has also misused Rs. 15,500 given by Nagamma of the village. While Vasuki has entered the amount in the pass book, she has not deposited the same in the Post Office account.

Meanwhile, T. Narasipur Sub-Division Postal Inspector S.N. Supriya has lodged a complaint at Talakad Police Station alleging that Vasuki has misappropriated Rs. 5.55 lakh public money and the Police, who have registered a case, are investigating.

Mysuru, Nov. 13- A former office-bearer of a house building co-op society has allegedly cheated a 54-year-old nurse of Rs. 70,000 cash and 131 grams gold jewellery on the pretext of getting her son a First Division Assistant (FDA) job at the society.

While the nurse who was cheated is Chandrakala, a resident of KHB Colony in Mandya, the accused is B.S. Lokeshwar, a former office-bearer of Yashaswini House Building Co-operative Society on Bannur Road in city.

Details: When Lokeshwar was the office-bearer of the society, he had given a job to Chandrakala's son K. Nishanth, who had studied up to PUC. Believing Lokeshwar, Chandrakala reportedly gave him Rs. 2.20 lakh cash and told him that she would pledge her 300 grams gold jewellery and give him the remaining amount. Lokeshwar himself took the gold and pledged it at a Bank and took the money.

The complaint further stated that in 2018, Chandrakala, who approached Lokeshwar, enquired about the job for her son and also told him to return the cash and gold if it was not possible for him to get the job following which, Lokeshwar returned Rs. 1.50 lakh and 169 grams gold jewellery.

She has further stated that Lokeshwar did not return the remaining Rs. 70,000 cash and 131 grams gold. Based on the complaint, Alanahalli Police, who have registered a case, are investigating.

WORD OF THE DAY

Fustigate

Pronunciation: FUSS-tuh-gayt.
Meaning: Fustigate means "to criticise severely." Its older, less common meaning is "to beat with or as if with a short heavy club."
Origin: A modern fustigation won't leave a bump on your head, but severe criticism can be a blow to your self-esteem. When fustigate first left its mark on the English language in the mid-17th century, it did so with the meaning "to cudgel or beat with a short heavy club"—a sense that reflects the word's Latin source, the noun fustis, meaning "club" or "staff." (Beat, "to strike repeatedly," is also a distant relative of fustis.) The "criticize" sense of fustigate may be more common these days, but the violent use is occasionally a hit with sports writers who employ it metaphorically to suggest how badly a team has been drubbed by their opponent.
Example: The abusive husband tends to fustigate his wife, beating her down emotionally with his cruel name-calling.

THE ODD WORD

Farandine

Silk and wool cloth.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A hot potato

Meaning: The phrase 'A hot potato' usually means: a delicate subject which people have different opinions and feel very emotional about.
Origin: The term originated in the mid 1800s and is derived from the slightly older term "to drop like a hot potato", meaning "to abandon something or someone quickly". It alludes to the fact that cooked potatoes retain considerable heat because they contain a lot of water.
It's not too hard to understand this phrase, try holding a hot potato and you'll drop it immediately!
Example: "I never ask about anyone's marital status; it can be a hot potato."
